

Chicago Inline Club Fired Up! Inline Events Begin May 8th 2010 in Indy.

Indianapolis, IN – April 15, 2010 – Over 100 inliners attended the 2010 Team Rainbo Inline Speedskating Club (<http://www.teamrainbo.com/>) annual meeting on March 1, 2010 in Chicago, IL. Planet Adventure, the hosts of 5 inline racing events in Indianapolis, was in attendance to promote the events and answer questions.

“We’ve lost a lot of races recently and it’s really encouraging to have more on the calendar now. We plan to support as many of these events as we can.”, said Cale Carvell Team Rainbo President pictured above with Bob Harwell representing Planet Adventure and Cale’s wife Margo Carvell. Located in Chicago, Team Rainbo is one the country’s oldest and most successful inline speedskating clubs. Their indistinguishable blue skin suits are famous and represented in inline races all over North America.

Matt Jourdan of Planet Adventure added, “We really hope that people aren’t intimidated about the word ‘race’. People always assume that you have to be a super star athlete to go out and do it, and it’s too bad because only a small percentage of the competitive inliners are elite athletes. Rainbo has been so successful because their mantra is all about participation and not performance. We hope to help the sport grow in the same way.”

For those looking for a more competitive day, athletes will have the opportunity to earn points in these events that count towards the National Roller Cup (NROC <http://nroc.inlineplanet.com/>) that ranks participants throughout the outdoor inline season much like USA Cycling. But all that is needed to participate in these events is a pair of skates, some protective gear (especially a helmet) and the desire for a personal challenge. Local professional inliner Bob Harwell said, “Just because someone skates for recreation and fitness doesn’t mean they aren’t ready to try an outdoor road event. They are actually more ready than they think. It’s a heck of a lot easier than running it!”

Planet Adventure offers safe courses, chip timing, on time start times, same day results posted on-line, various race lengths and types in one day to choose from, professional registration and results reporting and nationally recognized sanctioning for outdoor enthusiasts of all types as young as 6 years of age.
